

REICHSSTAG BACKS WAR BY SUBSEA

OPT RESOLUTION ON GERMAN SUBMARINE ACTIVITIES AS UNITED STATES AWAIT SUSSEX REPLY.

PERILS U. S. POSITION

Attitude of Congress on Submarine Question and German Decision—Draws Matters to Danger Point.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Amsterdam, April 6, via London, April 7.—The German Reichstag today adopted the committee's resolution on submarine war as well as the budget and the imperial chancellor and the foreign office.

Still No Information. Berlin, April 6, via London, April 7.—James W. Gerard, the United States ambassador here yesterday with Mr. Alfred F. M. Zimmerman, under secretary of foreign affairs, regarding the submarine situation. It is understood the foreign office had no information regarding the Sussex and other steamships, in which the United States has manifested an interest, but that there was information that Germany is undoubtedly ready to accept the terms of the United States more than half way if it should develop that the Sussex was torpedoed.

Evidence Before Cabinet. Washington, April 7.—All evidence at hand regarding destruction of British merchant ships and scores of other merchant ships, some carrying American citizens, was assembled at the state department today for presentation to the cabinet.

President Wilson and the cabinet considered the submarine situation again today without deciding upon action at this time.

It was understood the situation still waits on Germany's answer to inquiry regarding destruction of the Sussex and other vessels.

Discusses America's Attitude. London, April 7.—Friedrich Von Payer, the progressive people's party, touched upon the submarine situation in an address in the Reichstag yesterday, from which Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent quotes as follows:

"The political influence of America has arisen with the duration of the war. Its growth lays the heaviest responsibility on those European states which caused the war."

"We must have the right to live and to be of some account. We feel ourselves united with America by ties of blood and we hope the American people will do us justice."

"At the present moment America can perhaps render the world the greatest service by keeping out of reach of the flames of war."

"Common dangers and successes bind us together. Cooperation in peace must follow comradeship in war."

Mr. Von Payer said the disposal of submarine matter before the Reichstag was satisfactory to his party.

Eleven German steamships, the ship Simla, fifty nine hundred tons, has been sunk. Eleven members of her Asiatic crew were drowned. The rest were saved.

The Simla was 430 feet long and was built in 1894. The Daily Mail published a report this morning that the ship had been sunk in the Mediterranean.

Another ship, the Silesia, a German steamer may have been reported sunk in an earlier dispatch to the Daily Mail.

Sailing Vessel Sunk. London, April 7.—Lloyd's announced that the French sailing vessel St. Hubert has been torpedoed and may become a derelict. Her crew was rescued.

CHICAGO IS MENACED BY A MILK SHORTAGE

Seriousness of Milk War Between Farmers and Distributors Becomes Evident Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, April 7.—The seriousness of the milk shortage in Chicago as the result of larger distributors' refusal to grant dairy farmers of northern Illinois an increase of 22 1/2c a hundred pounds, was revealed today when the distributors began taking a census of families having babies or invalids with a view to supplying them first.

One of the large distributors and several smaller ones yesterday agreed to pay $1.55 per hundred pounds for milk and deliveries to them was resumed today. No settlement of the controversy is in sight, however, and it is expected that Chicago's milk supply—normally nearly two million quarts daily—will be curtailed hereafter.

A group of farmers from Elgin and other points have applied at Springfield for incorporation as a milk company, with a view to invading Chicago in competition with distributing companies.

Mr. J. M. Mix, president of the Ira J. Mix company, one of the three leading milk companies in the city, said he would raise in price to the producers, and announced his company would increase the retail price of milk to one cent a quart beginning Monday. The present price is eight cents.

The capitulation of the Mix company left the Borden and the Bowman companies alone in the fight with the producers.

Judge Samuel Stout issued a temporary injunction on application of the Bowman company.

LATE RETURNS SHOW ESCHWEILER VICTOR

MILWAUKEE CANDIDATE FOR SUPREME JUSTICE GETS 5,000 TO 10,000 PLURALITY.

NEW JUSTICE IS YOUNG

Slightly Over Fifty Years of Age.—Has Rapid Rise in the Legal Profession.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Milwaukee, April 7.—Judge Franz C. Eschweiler of Milwaukee has been elected associate justice of the supreme court by a vote of 5,000 to 10,000. This fact was established by returns received on Thursday, but the figures are not sufficiently complete to fix the plurality, which is being estimated from five to ten thousand.

The five cornered race seems on the latest returns to have placed Judge William J. Turner of Milwaukee in second place, and Judge E. B. Belden of Racine third. The four and half positions are in doubt, with Walter D. Corrigan slightly leading Judge Chester A. Fowler of Fond du Lac.

Because of the rapid rise given Judge Belden in his home county and also in Walworth, Kenosha and other counties in the southern part of the state, the contest appeared to be close with either Judge Eschweiler or Judge Belden.

JUDGE F. C. ESCHWEILER.

Belden a possible winner. The Milwaukee Judge, however, went on to Milwaukee county with a lead of 19,000 over Judge Belden, and in spite of the heavy home vote for the Racine candidate he maintained a good lead.

Judge Eschweiler's vote in the other counties was so consistent that Judge Belden could not overtake him.

Judge Turner also left Milwaukee county with a lead of nearly 20,000 over Judge Eschweiler, but his vote fell off in comparison with that cast for Judge Eschweiler except in his former home counties along the lake shore.

His Milwaukee county vote, however, probably will give him second place.

At the Eschweiler headquarters a statement was given out showing that by a compilation of 165,000 votes cast over the state, Judge Eschweiler received 46,000, Judge Turner 40,000, Judge Belden 30,500, Mr. Corrigan 27,500 and Judge Fowler 20,000.

Justus J. Young Man. Justus J. Young Man, Eschweiler was born at Houghton, Michigan and is 35 years of age. He came to Milwaukee when a very young man, where he has remained and made his home during the last thirty-five years.

Eschweiler was the product of the people and the public school system.

Judge Eschweiler early became a railway mail clerk in order to support himself, but he might study law evenings. After many years of application to the study of his profession, and by dint of industry and economy, Judge Eschweiler was enabled to attend the University of Michigan, and there gained the finishing touches in the law profession.

Rapid Rise at Bar. Since his admission to the bar in 1888, his experience and his rise and progress has been steady and uninterrupted. He was assistant district attorney for the county of Milwaukee during the years 1893 to 1897, and special assistant district attorney during the years 1900 to 1909.

Judge Eschweiler during the interval between 1895 and 1907 was engaged in the active practice of law. His work covered every branch of law beyond that which might study law evenings.

After many years of application to the study of his profession, and by dint of industry and economy, Judge Eschweiler was enabled to attend the University of Michigan, and there gained the finishing touches in the law profession.

Result Still in Doubt. Milwaukee, April 7.—An official count may be necessary to decide definitely the status of the Wisconsin election to the republican national convention.

Figures received by Milwaukee newspapers indicate the conservative or Phillips faction have elected eleven of the district delegates, and the La Follette wing nine, with eleven districts still in doubt.

Returns in hand indicate practically beyond question, the election of the Phillips delegates at large with the possible exception of Ellingson. Phillips is leading all the candidates for delegates at large. Even in counties figured as La Follette strongholds the governor is well up among the leaders.

The election of Judge Franz Eschweiler of Milwaukee to the supreme bench is generally conceded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Lexington, Ky., April 7.—Word reached here today that following a battle between revenue officers and moonshiners at Crank's Creek in Harland county, Washington Garrett considered by the officers to be the most notorious moonshiner in the state, was killed.

The federal authorities have been after Garrett for years, and the fight took place when they surprised a still and Garrett and his men attempted to escape into the mountains.

MADISON TO APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT ON ROAD TAX LAW

City Will Take Contention That State Aid Law Is Constitutional to Highest Court.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., April 7.—The appeal to the Wisconsin court from the adverse decision to the city of Madison in the highway appropriation case will be made immediately, and a date for argument will be set when the court convenes next Tuesday. The plan is to secure an interpretation of the state highway law before the court adjourns in June. The city of Madison has refused to pay over $47,000 due the county under the road tax law on the claim that the law is unconstitutional.

The decision of Judge Reid of Watonsau was to the effect that the law was constitutional and that the city treasurer had no right to withhold the aid. He declared that the decision affected the whole state, and should receive the earliest determination of the court of last resort. City Attorney Ryan has received letters from a number of counties saying that the cities within their borders paid their highway taxes under protest, so that if the law is held unconstitutional, they will be able to recover the amounts paid.

Madison has refused to pay to the city of Madison the amount of money due the city under the school tax and the Madison board of education has directed the city attorney to start an action against the county to collect the amount.

NEW DIRIGIBLE SHIP BREAKS AWAY TODAY

Navy Airship Stationed at Pensacola Tears From Mooring and Is Driven Westward by Wind.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Mobile, Ala., April 7.—A telephone message from Pensacola, Fla., early today said the navy's new dirigible airship broke from its moorings at the navy station there this morning and is being driven westward by a strong wind. Plans are being made to pursue and capture the runaway airship with aeroplanes. The dirigible, the largest ever sent to the Gulf coast, was to have been used for military observation purposes. It is said to be worth between fifty and sixty thousand dollars.

A sharp lookout is being maintained here for the dirigible which escaped from Pensacola. Men with powerful glasses were stationed on the tops of high buildings in the hope they may be able to sight the runaway.

Dr. De Pepper, dean of the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania, said today that a plan is on foot to merge the Medical College of Philadelphia and Jefferson Medical college with the medical department of the university.

DECIDE ON HARDING FOR G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

OHIO MAN CHOSEN BY NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO PRESIDE AT CONVENTION'S OPENING.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

"Nominate Best Man Available and Then Elect Him" Declares Chairman Miles.

Chicago, April 7.—Senator Warren H. Harding of Ohio was selected temporary chairman of the republican national convention by unanimous vote of the sub-committee on arrangements of the republican national committee today on the first ballot.

Other convention officers chosen were: La Fayette B. Gleason of New York, secretary; Wm. F. Stone of Baltimore, sergeant-at-arms; and George I. Hard of Roanoke, Va., official reporter.

The selection of Senator Harding for temporary chairman occupied but little time, the nomination was one of one kind and there was no discussion before the vote was taken.

Without exception the committee-men declined to discuss presidential possibility, taking the position that as they would later have to pass on contested delegation to the convention, they were in the nature of a quasi judicial body and that such discussion might be construed as an endorsement of possible candidates. Chairman Miles declared that the entire committee was confident of success for the republican party next fall and reiterated the fact that the convention would be open-minded and offer a free field for candidates.

"Our only hope," he said, "is to nominate the best man available and then to elect him. There is no confidence and no enthusiasm everywhere in the party."

Others of the committee declare many of the old leaders of the party have been chosen delegates to the convention and others have been returned to their places on the national committee, indicating a united party was preparing for the campaign.

Appleton, April 7.—C. J. Hagen, delegate from the ninth district to the republican national convention announced today that Hughes was the largest vote sent to the convention of Ohio, second. He said that on account of the stand Roosevelt had taken against the Germans, he would not vote for him unless he happened to be the unanimous choice of the convention.

STEAMSHIP MATOPPO LEAVES PORT TODAY

British Ship Which Lone German Held Up Leaves With War Supplies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Delaware Breakwater, Dela., April 7.—The British steamer Matoppos, whose captain and crew of 55 men were held up single-handed on the high sea last week by Ernest Schiller, now under arrest in New York, resumed her voyage to Vladivostok. The steamer sailed from New York March 25 with a cargo of war wire and railroad ties for the Russian government.

The Matoppos had been in harbor here more than a week while search of the ship was made for supposed bombs which Schiller said he placed in her hold. The petition for use in the charge of piracy brought against Schiller have been obtained by federal authorities from the captain and members of the crew.

Bandit's Forces Outwitted In Second Clash With Americans

General Pershing's Camp at San Gerónimo Ranch, Mexico, April 3, by Aeroplane and Motor Truck to Colonia N. M., April 7.—The second Villa defeat, news of which reached here late today, was considered a sharp moral defeat for Villa forces because America cavalrymen have outwitted them at their own game, that of slipping unseen through mountain passes. The news came in after General Pershing's forces out of touch with General Pershing for two days on account of bad weather and a temporary shortage of gasoline.

The losses of Villa forces tonight are given as thirty or more dead and a number of prisoners. The Villa forces, who are not considered as much significant as the manner in which the coup was executed. Ever since the Villa forces retreated from Guerrero the presence of Villa bands under Manuel Lopez in some spots between Guerrero and Chihuahua, fifty-five miles north of Guerrero, had been known. That they were relying on nothing else than their speed in making the difficult passes was indicated last Friday, March 31, when two American scouts inadvertently frightened the entire band estimated at about two hundred, out of the town of Bachinewa.

The scouts got into a bloodless duel with two Villa outposts at Bachinewa. The sound of the firing aroused the Villa forces, who at the time were camped in the plaza of the town. They scrambled for their horses with shouts of "Los Americanos!" and rode for the mountains in a hurry.

Saturday and Sunday two separate columns of cavalry were on the trails which this band had taken. In spite of fast riding, rather fast walking, for it was by walking and leading their horses most of the way that the cavalry got around and sometimes dismounted to climb the mountain tops, neither of these troops were in position to catch the Villa forces. Apparently that is what the bandits expected, but they reckoned again as in their first clash that they were without accounting for the unexpected striking power of the American cavalrymen.

WIDESPREAD EFFECT HINGES ON SUIT OF LIBRARY DIRECTORS

La Crosse County Circuit Court Suits City in Refusal to Give Fund to Endow Institution.

La Crosse, April 7.—A sweeping decision which, if sustained by the supreme court, will close up the La Crosse public library and threatened to close every endowed institution relying on a vote of mandamus to compel the city treasurer to pay over to the library board $6,000 appropriated by the council for the support of the library.

The judge refused the writ on the ground, first, that the charter limits the appropriations for this purpose to $2,000 and second, that it is unconstitutional to appropriate public money to any endowed institution.

If the supreme court takes the same view, the appropriations for the state historical library, twenty or more city libraries throughout the state and other quasi public institutions will be affected.

The La Crosse public library was created under the will of the late Cadwalader C. Washburn, which provided for the building and endowment. The late Charles Colman made a donation to the library under the same terms.

The endowment fund provides an income of $3,000 a year and to this the city adds $6,000 by appropriation, though the charter fixed the limit at $2,000. The point was raised recently that as the library is governed by a perpetuating board of trustees, the first of which was appointed under the Washburn will, and is not controlled by the city, the appropriation by the city as the library is not a public purpose and the city treasurer is not bound to pay it.

The library board will meet tonight to decide on future course. It may close the institution or attempt to run it with a single clerk in charge with the income obtained from the endowment. The library has 25,000 volumes and has an enormous circulation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, April 7.—Forty congressmen urged the house postal committee today to report the Griffin bill for pensioning postal employees of 60 years of age or over, and who have served in the war with some of its side lights.

"We shut our eyes and pass $10,000,000 for a battleship that won't last sixteen minutes after some submarine comes and gets it," said Representative Taggart of Kansas, "and then we knock a poor $500 clerk off the rolls while someone stamps his cowhide boots and shouts 'Economy!' We could effect no better work of economy than to pass legislation such as the Griffin bill."

BROADHEAD PRESBYTERIANS PLAN MEMORIAL EXERCISES

In 1880-81, just prior to the Civil war, the Broadhead church and society of Broadhead finished and dedicated a church edifice, and very soon thereafter the Presbyterians of the place built and dedicated a church. The first named society participated in a semi-centennial jubilee not long ago, and now the Presbyterians have arranged for a three days' semi-centennial gathering on the coming Easter and the two days following. C. W. Kimberley of this city sang at both dedications in the early sixties, and again for the Congregationalists after the passing of their fifty years. He is now invited to be present to make an address and to sing for the Presbyterians at their fiftieth anniversary, as stated.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Light snow tonight and possibly Saturday; continued cool.

LOCAL PRIDE.
Local pride should play a big part in the success of any undertaking for the general good of the community. The question of raising sufficient funds to assure the bringing of the proposed factory here demonstrated that the citizens of Janesville are alive to the best interests.

The support of the tractor factory, the enthusiasm shown as regards the coming Janesville fair, the talk favorable to a proposed Fourth of July celebration all go to indicate that when the real occasion arises you can depend upon Janesville and Janesville citizens to do their share.

The same sort of pride ought to be shown in the establishment of a real town in a down town location where it is most needed and its worth would be demonstrated within a very short time. The ladies of the city are giving the plan their earnest attention and the business men can do well to offer all the assistance possible.

Janesville is a good town to live in, a good town to boast of, and the sooner that every citizen realizes this the better off it will be for the whole community. Think it over and see if it does not appeal to your local pride?

CARRANZA VS. WILSON.
Woodrow Wilson may be an enigma to the leaders of his party in congress, or indeed to the great mass of democrats everywhere—but he is no riddle to Venustiano Carranza. Carranza understands Wilson like a book.

Some months ago Wilson issued a proclamation calling upon all the rival chieftains in Mexico to together and to agree upon a form of government for their country. All of them hastened to comply—except Carranza. In language whose contemptuous quality could not be misunderstood he told Wilson to mind his own business and that the Carranza outfit would continue to do business at the old place.

Having thus defied Wilson successfully Carranza for months later came to his reward. Out of all the contending rascals in Mexico, Wilson picked the one who had snubbed him and gave him the recognition of this government.

Recently, Wilson ordered Funston to "get Villa." To do this required the entrance of American troops upon Mexican soil—where Carranza bobbed up severely and notified Wilson that if American soldiers were sent into Mexico he must insist upon the right of American troops to enter the United States. Again Wilson submitted to Carranza.

Carranza knows that Wilson has only to be resisted and he submits.

WHO PAYS THE TARIFF?
That $149,000 was raised and expended to procure the reduction of the duty on lemons in the Underwood bill, and that $35,000 of this amount was contributed by Sicilian lemon growers are among the interesting facts brought out—not by the democratic lobby investigation—but by a lawsuit filed by William C. Beer to compel payment of his share of the sum.

Mr. Beer is described as having been a republican, but as having contributed $5,000 to the Wilson campaign fund. He is also recalled as chief sponsor for that James Mark Sullivan whom Mr. Wilson appointed minister to Santo Domingo and who made such a spectacle of himself there that the president, on recommendation of Democratic Senator Phelan, who investigated his conduct, was compelled to remove him.

Mr. Beer also won fame by a valiant defense of Secretary Bryan at that time. The interesting fact is that the Sicilian lemon growers and the New York importers of lemons raised $140,000 to procure the reduction of the tariff on lemons from $1.20 to 35 cents a box, that Beer accomplished this reduction and he is now suing his employers for the promised fee, or some part of it.

These facts, and the further fact that lemons are no cheaper, naturally raise the question, if the democratic contention that the consumer pays the tax is true, why did Sicilian lemon growers and importers contribute so generously to have the tax reduced? Incidentally, there is room for speculation as to how this fund was expended to induce the democratic majority to make so sweeping a reduction in the duty.

EYE TROUBLE.
A Washington dispatch announces that President Wilson has just made one of his regular trips to Philadelphia to consult his oculist. Apparently he is one of that great number of people for whom a regular examination of the eyes has become a necessity. Much reading and work under artificial light and imperfect illumination—these common conditions have produced a race subject to eye diseases.

Our fathers and grandfathers consulted the family doctor or the local watchmaker who kept spectacles as a side line, if convinced that their eye sight was failing. But visiting a specialist for regular examinations at $10 per, would have seemed folly. They were old stoics, and would endure severe distress for many years, due to causes that any good oculist could easily rectify.

If convinced that they must put on "specs," they would either buy of the first peddler that happened along. They would look over the basket full of glasses that he carried, and select the pair that seemed to feel best. Today in the large cities a whole colony of oculists has grown up with waiting rooms filled with patients.

It is pathetic to see the many children that suffer from eye trouble. Frequently one observes them on the street holding a book close to the eyes. Children seemed stupid in school merely because they were too near-sighted to see the blackboard. The teacher never thought of giving them a seat where they could see the work the class was doing.

It always seems unfortunate for a tumble of boy life. If the other boys pitch on him, he can hardly retaliate until he has put his glasses away. By that time he may be soot spinning in the dirt, his glasses broken, and a punishment awaiting him at home. But life-long trouble may result from failure to wear them. Teachers and parents should look carefully for early indications of such defects, and get good advice about them.

AGED MINISTERS.
The Episcopal church is trying for a $5,000,000 fund for aged clergymen, and the Congregationalists have started a $3,000,000 fund. Other denominations are making like efforts.

As so many churches think a minister crosses the dead line at forty, they can hardly expect him to make provision for old age. As expenses increase, his salary declines. The churches say they must have a young man to hold young people. There is something in this. Many ministers become prematurely old from losing the play spirit in their absorption in spiritual interests. They might well reflect that even Martin Luther played bowls. Probably he played a good game, too. The common recreations of ordinary humanity would help any minister keep in touch with young life.

But even with every effort to keep young, many clergymen find their last years pathetic and impecunious. The churches that shelve them at the age when other men reach the height of their powers, are much like children that won't care for a destitute parent.

ROUGH-HOUSE POLITICS.
There was a suggestion of the good old times in the dispatch from the Muskogee county, Oklahoma, republican convention the other day. Two rival factions tried to hold the convention in the same hall. Personal encounters resulted, and one chairman was arrested, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

That this kind of thing is comparatively rare shows some amendment of political manners. Many of us recall when in certain districts nearly every caucus and convention meant a free fight. The mainly art of self-defense was a much better equipment than any intelligence gained from reading about the candidates.

Of course political fighting blood has not yet died out. But primaries and conventions are conducted in a more regular manner. Formerly it was customary in many localities simply to place a box on the platform and invite all who professed the faith to march up and cast a ballot. If they cast three or four each, while they were about it, it might get by.

The voting list was frequently not used, and repeating was more or less easy. In tough localities, cries of fraud arose soon after the box was closed. Carranza for months later came to his reward. Out of all the contending rascals in Mexico, Wilson picked the one who had snubbed him and gave him the recognition of this government.

Recently, Wilson ordered Funston to "get Villa." To do this required the entrance of American troops upon Mexican soil—where Carranza bobbed up severely and notified Wilson that if American soldiers were sent into Mexico he must insist upon the right of American troops to enter the United States. Again Wilson submitted to Carranza.

Carranza knows that Wilson has only to be resisted and he submits.

They would look over the basket full of glasses that he carried, and select the pair that seemed to feel best. Today in the large cities a whole colony of oculists has grown up with waiting rooms filled with patients.

It is pathetic to see the many children that suffer from eye trouble. Frequently one observes them on the street holding a book close to the eyes. Children seemed stupid in school merely because they were too near-sighted to see the blackboard. The teacher never thought of giving them a seat where they could see the work the class was doing.

It always seems unfortunate for a

Today most states have strict nomination laws, which go to the extreme of elaboration in order to prevent fraud. The business of nominating a candidate has become complex. Only the professionals can fully keep in touch with the provisions of the law. The impromptu movements of amateurs are apt to strike the snag of some technicality. But at least nominating meetings have become more orderly and free from frauds. Twenty years ago no such incident as this Muskogee convention would have been telegraphed all over. That kind of thing was too common to be news.

A few years ago all the girls had to do to get a stylish skirt was to cut up dad's horse blanket. Now they get even more up-to-date results by working up the front porch awning.

There are certain types of men who are much more interested in the fact that Tris Speaker got four hits with a total of nine, than that the Russians took two lines of trenches near Riga.

Good fishing grounds are located not so much by sight of fish jumping in the water, as by the number of empty bottles in the bushes.

The new secretary of war smokes a corn cob pipe, but it is not stated that the janitor has had to put a sawdust box in his office yet.

If ex-President Taft is not satisfied with the election outlook, he must at least be cheered by the announcement of lower prices on golf balls.

It is strange that the trusts will allow the government to go ahead and investigate the question of the advances in prices.

There are certain men who would never advertise, as they might have to put on additional help to handle their increased business.

FRECKLES
Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.
There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from any druggist—and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

ELIZABETH A. HARRIS DIES AT HOSPITAL

Teacher in Janesville Public Schools for Many Years.—Funeral Sunday Afternoon.

The many friends of Miss Elizabeth Harris will be shocked and grieved to learn of her death, which occurred at Mercy Hospital this morning. Elizabeth Harris was born in Janesville and spent her entire life here. She was an efficient teacher in the public schools for many years. She was a woman of sterling quality, conscientious in the discharge of her duties to the public and in her home. She was a devoted mother and loving sister, always thinking for others rather than for herself. She was a faithful member of Christ's Episcopal church.

Miss Harris leaves to mourn her loss her mother, a sister, Mrs. W. W. Brunson, her uncles, C. J. A. N. and J. H. Jones, and three nephews, Ralph, Henry and Nelson Simmons of St. Paul.

Funeral services will be held at her late residence, 721 Milwaukee avenue, on Sunday, the Rev. John McKinney officiating.

CARY URGES THAT ARBOR DAY BE CORRECTLY USED BY WISCONSIN CITIZENS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., April 7.—"Arbor Day is being perverted in too many places into a mere day for the inculcation of the aesthetic side of life and tree life," said C. P. Cary, state superintendent of schools today. He recommended that the day be observed for the economic as well as the aesthetic and artistic.

"Arbor Day should teach conservation of forests both for the future timber supply and the protection of the head waters of our rivers. It should teach the use of lumber so that children will realize the importance of trees as well as their beauty."

Cary said that he finds from looking over the Arbor Day literature of many other states, Wisconsin stands practically alone in the recognition of the purposes of Arbor Day.

"We have gone deep into fire prevention work and during the past two years have broadened our work along this line," he said. "We teach children the way to conserve forests is not alone to prevent forest fires and wasteful cutting of timber, but also to prevent the burning of buildings. Every house that is burned means that many trees must be felled to provide lumber for a new home."

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 42.

Short-time experiments with any one of the exacts of natural rice prove conclusively that it is not some mysterious element found in the whole grain which is so necessary to life, but the combination of all the elements, which yields to the daily food of man that is so essential.

In 1905 Dr. Donald McCaskay, to whom reference was made in a previous chapter, was a medical inspector in charge of a company of Igorot soldiers in Buena Vista, Cavite Province, Philippine Islands. The soldiers all went down with acidosis, or beriberi, a condition characterized by the heart, pains in the nerves, flabbiness of tissue, emaciation, and puffing swelling of the limbs. The disease ended ultimately in paralysis and death.

When Dr. McCaskay was put in charge of these troops he noted that they had been eating the usual Philippine ration of rice, which, however, had been polished in imitation of the American custom.

McCaskay was familiar with the outbreak of beriberi that had swept like wildfire among the Japanese troops during the Russo-Japanese war, and he knew that it had been observed at that time that such troops as were fed with unpolished rice were not subject to beriberi.

Numerous doctors had been employed on the Igorot soldiers, but they did not bring relief. McCaskay put them on a diet of unpolished rice. These are his words:

"The results were so astounding that inside of three weeks the time beriberi sufferers had recovered sufficiently to take the trail and hike on their own legs fifteen miles to Manila."

Later the convictions borne of this Manila experience of Dr. McCaskay were still further confirmed by his study of beriberi in the Japanese hospitals at Hiroshima, Tokyo, Kobe, and Sasebo.

Surgeon-General Takaki of the Japanese navy made a harem, in recognition of his discovery that beriberi, prevalent among Japanese soldiers and sailors, was not of bacterial but of dietetic origin, "due to the loss of certain food constituents, notably phosphorus, contained in the inner coating of pericarp of the rice grain, which is always removed and discarded in the preparation of polished rice."

Chamberlain and Voder of the United States Army Board for the Study of Tropical Diseases, after studying the very high mortality of breast-fed infants in the Philippine Islands, reported that these infants recovered from the disease by the dietetic origin with remarkable rapidity under treatment with an extract of rice polishings. This extract contains phosphorus, iron, calcium, potassium, and many other bodies of unknown nature discarded in the modern process of milling rice to give it a white and fancy appearance.

Voder, with Strong and Cowell of Manila, experimented with a rice diet in Billibid prison, the hygienic conditions of which are reported as almost ideal.

The result of their experiments has been briefly summarized in the following words:

"It has been generally admitted the higher the phosphorus content of rice the less the possibility of that rice to produce beriberi."

"Fraser and Stanton found as an average result of all their examinations that unpolished rice contains 0.540 per cent. of phosphorus pentoxide."

"Aaron found an almost identical quantity, his figures being 0.557 per cent."

We therefore emphasize the necessity of fully considering the question of the amount of phosphorus pentoxide which rice should legally be required to contain in order for it to be regarded as an unpolished rice exempt from taxation in the Philippine Islands."

All these investigators have clearly established the fact that refined foods, from which certain elements have been removed, are inadequate to the needs of the living animal.

Some of them, however, in their efforts to elaborate upon the simple truth that a last lay before them conclusively demonstrated, have gone into confusing and dangerous fields.

"Give us enough 'phosphorus pentoxide' and we shall be safe," concludes one group.

"Give us enough 'potash' and every body will be safe," says another group.

"Give us the 'vitamines' and our food, of whatever it may consist, will be sufficient to our needs," declares another group.

Another group tells us that "if we consider the superior qualities we have no other worries, and therefore the food value of all food should be determined by the number of calories which it contains."

"None of these commentators seems to realize that it is not any one of the elements of known or unknown nature to be found in natural food, however the important in itself, but the combination of some of all of them which is essential to health and longevity."

Short time experiments with any one of them or with the absence of any one of them, or with an arbitrary combination of some of them, cannot yield results which will serve as a standard for an entire lifetime. Of these things in their proper places we shall have much to say that is startling and conclusive.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by ALFRED W. McCANN.

Q. Kindly define: (1) Whole wheat bread. (2) Bran bread. (3) Graham bread. (4) Boston brown bread. (5) Pumpernickel.

A. I am satisfied that white bread is deficient and harmful. It is necessary, therefore, that I obtain information as to just what the other breads are so that I may be intelligently guided in making a change.

1. A whole wheat bread is made of a meal containing all of the wheat, including the bran and germ. It is made exactly as any other kind of bread is made. Commercial bakers get best results when they use a mixture of 75 per cent. winter wheat and 25 per cent. spring wheat. The winter wheat is soft and the spring wheat is hard. The combination of the two produces a loaf of pleasing texture. Whole wheat bread does not raise to the same airy, bubbly, nutty lightness characteristic of white bread. It should not be expected to. Properly made, it tastes more like a nutty cake than the tasteless white bread to which the American public has become accustomed.

2. Bran bread is made by the average baker exactly as he makes his white bread, except for the addition of 5 or 10 per cent. of bran in some instances and 20 or 40 per cent. of bran in others. Bran is entirely upon the whim of the baker.

3. Graham bread, as it usually appears in the baker's shop, is a mere sham. It means nothing. This is not due to any meanness on the part of the baker, but to the fact that he does not appreciate the meaning of honest whole wheat. I have frequently exposed the miserable manipulation of so-called graham flour, which often represents merely the end products of the mill thrown together without rhyme or reason. Some graham loaves are made of such stuff, others are made of ordinary white flour with a small admixture of coarse ground whole wheat meal or bran is added.

Graham bread, when honestly made, is synonymous with whole wheat bread. There is no difference between them. People as a rule do not like whole wheat bread because their only knowledge of it is derived through the foolish makeshift that is known as "Graham." It is tasteless, flavorless, loaf, sweetened with a dash of molasses and browned with a touch of caramel. No wonder it is not liked.

4. There are so many ways of making Boston brown bread that your question is quite unanswerable. The one thing that does not appear in the formula is it is usually made in whole loaves.

5. Pumpernickel, when honestly made, is merely a whole rye loaf. It is one of the most nutritious and honest foods known to man. Those who live on pumpernickel are never under-nourished.

Q. Does cheese contain the same nutritive value as dried or powdered milk?

A. No. In the making of cheese the whey is removed. In the making of milk powder the fat is removed. The whey contains much of the mineral matter of the milk. The fat contains little.

Cheese is a condensed form of protein. Milk powder, when made in a clean factory of freshly skimmed milk, contains all the substances needed by the body except fat.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME...

Copyright 1915 by Frank H. Spearman.

Lug like another Watson, stared at his companion until he should hear more. "We must drop this car into the train," explained Bill. "Throw the ore out on the right of way as we run along and pick it up afterwards with the machine. See?"

Together they crossed over to where the train stood, pulled a pin in the middle of the swing and attached the longer of the cables securely between the two sections of the train thus cut in two. The second cable was attached to the hind end of the first cut, and fastened to the partly loaded box car on the side track. The plotters then rested.

The conductor, deciding there was no use waiting longer for the box car, was making ready to go without it. The head-end brakeman signaled the cab and the train pulled out. As the slack was taken up the box car answered first to the strain on the short cable and with a jerk started down the siding. Approaching the switch, as its momentum increased, it swung the connecting rods and swung in on the main line contact, as Bill had intended, between the two sections of the train.

When the engineer shut off to coast down the grade the three sections came together and the train, except for the absence of air in the hind end of the train line pipe, was complete.

The escaped guard, running every step of the way to sound the alarm, had by this time arrived exhausted at the mine. At the foot of the aerial railway he found Storm with Helen watching the ore come down. Grasping the situation from the disconnected words the man was able to utter, Storm dashed into the chemist's office close at hand and seized a Winchester rifle. Helen sprang to a team and empty wagon, waiting for a load, and climbing up to the seat seized the reins at the moment Storm, rifle in hand, ran out of the office to join her. She lashed the horses forward and headed with a very different load from what they had expected, for Valley.

Bill and his confederate in the box car, elated by their huge success, looked out of the side door for observers and seeing none, began to dump the sacks of precious quartz one after another out on the right of way.

But it was a day of surprises for everybody. The agent at Valley—who had asked to be sent out to the desert on account of his rheumatism—was peacefully lighting his pipe, after the one great event of the day—the departure of the local freight—when he heard somewhere out of doors an unwonted rumble. It grew and still it grew and the next moment a team, helter skelter on the run dashed down the road from the Superstition mine toward the depot. In a moment he was dumfounded to recognize in the man behind the threatening rifle as he drew close, his old acquaintance in the Oceanside yards, George Storm, the ex-engineer.

Could George Storm have turned bandit? Was he running amuck? Would he take the life of an old and unoffending friend without provocation? These and similar queries raced through his head when Storm, addressing him with a shout by an old-time familiar nickname, asked where the box car of ore was, that had stood on the siding.

The agent now saw everything double but look as he would he could see no car. Not until now had he given the presence of the box car a thought. He knew the train had not taken it because it was not ready. He knew the conductor had started without it—but where was it? The car of ore had disappeared completely.

Storm was talking fast and the situation was made clearer to the startled agent when he learned the wagon guards had been held up. To Helen, who thought in tremendous ellipses and reached the end of situations before others had charted their beginnings, there was only one possible solution to the mystery and to solve it they must chase the freight train. She so declared and Storm approved. That day mere chance, which had so often contributed to the discomfiture of Storm and Helen, came to their aid. The freight train stopped at Arden for water. This embarrassed Lug and Bill, who, perspiring at every pore, were watching sackfuls of quartz as fast as they could along the track. What was of more moment, the engineer's stop for water enabled Helen and Storm with their team to gain on the train.

Helen rose in her seat. "Drive close, George," she cried. "I can make the train from here and give the alarm."

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Margarita Fischer and Harry Pollard are embarking on a new venture in which Miss Fischer stars and Mr. Pollard directs—under the protection of George W. Lederer. The first production will be "The Pearl of Paradise," staged at Los Angeles, Honolulu, and the south sea islands.

HOBART BOSWORTH IN "TWO MEN OF SAN-BAR" starring Hobart Bosworth and Jack Curtis, is the latest contribution to the screen. The picture is based on one of Bret Harte's western stories in the days of the 40ers and has its general old Col. Starbottle and stolid Gambler Oakhurst.

It is the story of a gambler at San Francisco who is loved by a married woman known as the Duchess. To spite him she fixes his decks of cards and this damns him as a crooked player.

Oakhurst drifts to a border town and there falls in love with a Mexican girl. The affairs are cleared up nicely and all ends happily. Correct costume, realism of setting and scene and properties that in general conform with the required period have been furnished.

"THE HAUNTED MANOR" TO BE RELEASED SOON

"The Haunted Manor" is to be released soon as a melodramatic in character, telling of the love of an East Indian potentate for an American adventuress, who in turn loves an artist. The escape of the woman from the rajah's court after killing a servant whom she thought was spying upon her furnishes a thrilling episode. The adventuress is played by Miss Iva Sheppard, who scored so heavily in a similar "vampire" role in "The Drifter."

"Get back there, you 'Jens house,'" roared a director at a picture player who was just breaking into the game at the studio recently. "What do you mean, 'Jens house'?" demanded the man who had just years of stage experience. For this information it was explained as a bit of studio slang to describe one who insists on

M. E. Shanahan is improving in health.

Samuel Hollister, a brother of J. J. Hollister of this city, passed away at his home in Elkhorn Wednesday, April 6, after a long illness. Mr. Hollister would have been sixty years of age on June 23, 1916. The funeral, which will be held at the home Friday at one o'clock, will be conducted by Rev. J. J. Hollister, Albert Hollister, J. H. Hollister, Wm. Mereness, Charles Kimball and Len Williams, cousins of the deceased. Burial will take place at East Delavan.

A mothers' meeting was held at the school house this afternoon and was well attended.

Safety in Perilous Times

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible
Institute of Chicago.

TEXT.—But ye, beloved, building up yourselves on your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Ghost, keeping yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.—Jude 20, 21.

The book of Jude sets forth the apostasy which began even in apostolic days, but which will reach its height in the end of the age. It is of high interest in the perilous times in which we live, and we would invite special attention to the secret of safety for believers set forth in the text.

The root of the apostasy is that we shall keep ourselves in the love of God. This is the sunshine whose light and warmth we need in dark days. A realization of the love of God will keep us from both discouragement and apostasy.

But the Spirit of God is even more explicit and gives three directions which, if followed, will enable us to keep ourselves in the love of God.

First, we are to build up ourselves on our most holy faith. John Wesley used to warn his hearers that they would not grow in grace unless they grew in knowledge. We may add that many stray from the faith because no properly instructed in its contents. They seem willing to trust their own powers in the conflict with Satan, whereas our Lord himself was content to meet the assaults of the devil with, "It is written."

An excellent illustration of obedience to the direction of the text is found in the life of Charlotte Elizabeth, who lived in the days of the Irvingite movement. She heard of marvelous healings and "gifts," including the gift of tongues, and was very desirous of taking a proper attitude in the matter. She felt that a few scattered texts were not enough, but that she should read the Bible in a connected way for light. So, one night, after earnest prayer for guidance, she sat on the side of her bed, and, beginning at Matthew, read straight on till she had gone through the seventh chapter of Revelation, completing the New Testament next morning. She saw that miracles may even be of Satanic origin and that they will characterize some things to be avoided in the last days. The prominence given to women in the Irvingite movement she saw to be unscriptural, and her judgment on the matter was confirmed shortly afterwards when she found that heresy as to the nature of Christ was being taught. We tremble to think of the easy prey found by Satan among Christians because of a lack of such building up of themselves on their most holy faith.

Next, we are instructed to pray in the Holy Ghost. We are familiar with the fact that the Holy Ghost prays in us, but the thought of the text is not so common. It represents the Holy Ghost, so to speak, as the atmosphere in which the Christian lives and breathes out his petitions.

Finally, we are to be "looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ." We shall need mercy when he comes, and looking for his coming is a means of safety. While such an attitude of expectancy was common in the early church, it has unhappily become rare in modern times. Yet it appears on the very surface of the New Testament as the normal attitude of Christians. A missionary who had spent fourteen years in China stated that all the native Christians in her district were looking for the coming of the Lord. She went on to explain that this was not the result so much of specific instructions on this point, but because they had no book on doctrine save the New Testament, and they found this truth for themselves as a commonplace of apostolic teaching.

Jude speaks of false teachers who ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward. Looking for the Lord is a cure for the greed which has led some into the ways of apostasy. John Wilkinson, the founder of the Midway Mission for the Jews, was once approached at a railway station by two women who had heard him speak. They placed in his hands a large sum of money and one of them explained that God had entrusted to them of this world's goods and they were anxious to prove good stewards. Just the Lord at his coming should find his wealth in their hands unused. So in many directions, looking for the coming of the Lord is a safeguard against falling from the faith.

Verse 1 of this epistle speaks of our being "preserved in Jesus Christ," or, as the Revised Version renders it, "kept for Jesus Christ."

We do not wonder that Jude closes with a confident doxology. "Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling (or, stumbling), and to present you faultless before the presence of our glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God, our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."

Second Quarter. Lesson II. Acts IX. 32-43. April 9, 1916.

AENEAS AND DORCAS.

St. Peter had become a tireless itinerant. It is significantly said of him that "He passed throughout all quarters." In widening circles he spoke his words of wisdom and did his deeds of power. Part of his mission was to make new converts and part, not the least, was to confirm and establish those already converted. Christianity, following the precept and example of Jesus, undertook to make men more comfortable in their bodies, to alleviate pain and provide for the destitute. In this, this furnished new and powerful evidence of the divinity of the faith so recent in its origin.

Thus, for example, when the apostle came to Lydda, he found a great sufferer, whose persistent malady was so conspicuous that it had become a household word. It was as if all the lingering and repeated disorders, both mental and physical, of that whole region were represented in it. Standing in presence of this supreme sufferer, surrounded probably by a considerable number of persons, both professors and non-professors, the apostle felt that effusion of the Divine Spirit which justified him in speaking those talismanic words, "Jesus, Messiah, bealeth!" "One comfortor calls Aeneas a 'characterless man,' but certainly he had in him a faith to match the apostle's challenge. The response was immediate. He sprang to his feet and rolled up his mat. The effect of this acted parable was quick and wide. 'All the dwellers in that section turned to the Lord.'"

But St. Luke's vivid picture now dissolves and one still more radiant takes its place. It is the portrait of a woman. Her eye is that of the gazelle and her very name signifies, not merely benignant in pity for the poor, but also alert to detect their need and swift with the means to relieve it. With a rational abandon she threw her time, talent, fortune, self into the loving service of the unfortunate. Her very mind and heart were permeated with the spirit of philanthropy. "She was full of good works and alms-deeds which she did." She had an embryo devotion society about her. But at the very moment when she seemed most indispensable to the success of her charitable enterprises "it came to pass in those days that she was sick and died." Her sudden and untimely death struck dismay into the hearts of her co-workers. Their tears were her epitaph. Their loving exhibition of the great quantity of coats and garments that she had made for her own busy hands were her eloquent eulogium.

But her friends were at first hopeless in their grief. The stars were already shining through their cypress trees. No apostle had as yet raised the dead, but they believed St. Peter could and they sent for him. He came at once. He imitated exactly the example of Jesus. He excluded observers. He prayed. He said "Arise!" "He presented her alive!"

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
If Dorcas had not died prematurely we should never have heard of her. She might have continued to be the Madonna of the Alley in Joppa, but her name would not have come into the New Testament. The mere fact of her appearance in the record does not enhance the intrinsic value of her deeds. It goes to show how much is being done by the comparatively obscure. The unknown men in the ranks win the victory. The principal maintains in the life of the church today.

If death ends all, if there is no spirit to survive, if with Moleschott we are to say "Thought is a movement of matter" or with Karl Vogt "Thought stands in the same relation to the brain as gall to the liver or urine to the bladder," then untimely death is inexplicable; the obliteration of the thinking faculty when it is at its best is a travesty on the Creator.

But if there is a future life, then into it the spirit enters with all the advantage of its discipline and experience in the present and under conditions still more favorable continues its activities. Given such a future, then no death is premature except in appearance.

These scenes bring us to the objective life of the early church. It sought not only to be good but to do good. It irradiated the dark places of want and suffering with its practical beneficence. St. Peter healing Aeneas and Dorcas with her words and garments represent the church in her aggressive mission.

The restoration of the sentient spirit, as in the case of Dorcas, to its inanimate body is not in itself incredible if it is done by the Lord and Giver of all spirit. In this instance St. Peter was only the Lord's confessed instrument. The purpose of the miracle is its justification.

Is anything similar to the healing of Aeneas possible in our day? There are alleged cases of recovery without ordinary remedial means. It is commonly found, however, that the cases are nervous or sympathetic. The explanation is that a strengthened will has regained its normal ascendancy over the nervous system in a natural way. Again, one strong will is known to have subtle power to infuse itself into a weaker one, as for example that of a parent's into a child's. This in some instances would seem to be the psychological basis of the so-called cure.

When asked if she believed in healing by faith or by medicine answered with feminine intuition "I believe in healing by faith and by medicine." It would be wicked in extreme cases to use medicine without prayer. It would be folly to pray without giving medicine. As well pray "Give us our daily bread" and then sink down in idleness to wait for it. Again, if Christianity was intended as a panacea it is an admitted failure. But where is the evidence that preachers and elders were ever intended to supplant physicians and pharmacists, or the gospel in the materia medica?

The second unit of the new building, the plans for which were authorized by the board last night, is to replace a part of the structure destroyed by fire.

State Engineer J. D. Mack was directed by the board to obtain plans and specifications for a physical education building at the La Crosse normal school at a cost of $80,000. This action was taken for the purpose of obtaining a decision from the supreme court as to the amount available for the erection of this building, there being a legal question as to whether $12,000 or $80,000 is available.

Only two small alterations building projects affecting the university were considered by the board. One authorized changes in the gymnasium exit plans and the other approved of changes in music hall aggregating $5,000. The board of education requested the emergency board to appropriate an amount, not to exceed $105,000 to cover the deficit in the operation budget of the university for 1915-1916. The financial budget of the university for 1916-17 was received by the board, but consideration was delayed until another meeting. The plans for the erection of an industrial system at the university were approved. The board directed Educational Statistician Buckingham and Secretary F. S. Lamb to investigate the systematizing of the normal school.

Those present at the meeting of the board were Governor Philip C. La Follette, State Engineer J. D. Mack, State Superintendent C. P. Cary and Theodore Kronshage. Dr. Gilbert Seeman of Milwaukee, was absent.

FINAL BATTLE WILL BE FOUGHT IN AIR

Head of British-American Army Says Final Battle of Great War Will Be in the Air.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Toronto, April 7.—The decisive action of the war will be fought in the air in the opinion of Major General Sir Frederick Benson, head of the rearmount department of the British army for North America, who has had long experience in various important commands. In a letter made public today by Colonel William Hamilton, treasurer of the Canadian aviation fund, Sir Frederick writes:

"I have been watching closely the small items of news that one gets from the firing line and I am more and more convinced of the vast importance of training aviators. The decisive actions of this war will be in the air. When the German navy does show itself it will be accompanied by clouds of seaplanes and Zeppelins."

LAKOTAS PLAY IOWA CHAMPIONS TONIGHT

Dalton, McCaffery, Atwood and Young, With New Man Play at Muscatine. —Prepare for Rockford.

Members of the Lakotas Cardinals left Thursday afternoon for Muscatine, Iowa, where they will play tonight for the championship of Iowa against the fast Muscatine team. The Lakotas will not have their full team, but will have an aggregation to play Muscatine fully as strong as the home team when cleared for action in the home games. McCaffery of Dubuque college, will play center, along with Atwood and a new man at forward, Young and Dalton, guards. Edler and Korsi were unable to make the trip yesterday.

In comparing the Lakotas' record for this season, there is not another team in the west which has been able to duplicate it. They have beaten the best teams of Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, California and tonight play for the Iowa honors. If the Lakotas trim Rockford Saturday and then beat Tomah the week following, they will have the best record of any club in the west. Fond du Lac has been ranting about the record made by the notorious Frank Basler and his eastern players with Co. E. Last week Whiting players stated that they beat Co. E. 20 to 14 on their home floor and their score book showed it. Tomah beat Co. E. two straight games, one at Tomah and the other at Mauston, and Red Wing gave Basler's club two unmerciful wallpings. The Lakotas beat them two out of three. Rockford trimmed them and so did Belvidere. Figuring it all up, it is evident that Co. E. lost about half of their hard games. So far this season the Lakotas have

WHITE WINS VERDICT OVER WELLS IN BOUT

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—Charley White, lightweight, was awarded a decision over Mat Wells, English lightweight champion, in a fifteen round bout here Thursday night.

White, although known as a left-handed fighter, used his right with telling effect. In the eleventh and fourteenth rounds he showered Wells with right crosses until the Briton was compelled to hold on to save himself. The English champion fought a game fight, however, and the action did not lag at any time.

Newspapermen gave White eight of the fifteen rounds. Wells received three, while four were even.

Nelson Knocked Out.
Kenosha, Wis., April 7.—Jack Hempie, Jess Willard's sparring partner, felled Lee Nelson in the eighth round here last night. Hempie was the aggressor all the way and in the eighth he sent Nelson down for the ten count.

A big crowd of Chicagoans swelled the attendance at the show.

Richie Mitchell Ready For the Going to Clash With Champion Welsh.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7.—Richie Mitchell was ready today to clash with Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion in their ten round bout at the Auditorium. The ticket sale has been the largest of the season and the promoters are certain of making a good profit.

It will be the chance of Richie's young career and the Milwaukee boy is going to step out after the bacon. It will be a tough fight for him but his Milwaukee followers are confident that he will make a good showing.

Mitchell has lost but on eight this year and that was the first of the season. Since he has met and whipped some of the best lightweights in the country.

Mat McCue of Racine will battle Walter Jacobson of Chicago in the semi-windup. This will go ten rounds also. Joe Dunn and Battling Hoffman and Posey Williams and Jack Rose will furnish the amusement for the early arrivals.

Tinker is Undecided Over the Cub Line-Up.

Chicago, April 7.—It looks as though Manager Tinker will not know the regular Cub line-up until he announces his batting order at Cincinnati April 12. In his endeavor to find a line of battle that will combine speed in the field and strength at the bat, the Cub leader has shifted his men about continually. He is confident he finally has injected into the squad some of the "proper" and fighting spirit he deemed lacking at the start, but is still in doubt as to the make-up of the infield and outfield.

Dolan's failure to round into form spoils his plans for the team's defense, but in himself and Mulligan, Tinker has reserve strength to use until Mike regains his speed. Mann's hitting slump has disappointed the manager too and leaves the outer gardens still to be definitely filled. It is possible that Schulte may regain his old place in left.

Opening Day at White Sox Park to be "Some Day."

Chicago, April 7.—Opening day at the White Sox park, April 12, will be "some day" as long as Secretary Grabner. A corps of seventy-five painters are busily engaged in putting a new coat of paint on the massive structure, nearly a hundred groundkeepers are busy putting the diamond in condition, while the office force is working overtime to take care of the crowd which is expected. According to Secretary Grabner, there has been a big demand for seats at the opening contest, to be handled through the mails, but he said that in as much as the park is one of the largest in the country, there will be plenty seats, which can be obtained at the public sale which starts Monday, April 10. It was officially announced that the opposing pitchers for the first clash of the season between Detroit and the White Sox, will be Scott and Coveleski.

No Need of a Field Captain Says Rowland.

Chicago, April 7.—Manager Rowland decided not to have a field captain for the White Sox, say dispatches from correspondents "at the front." When the manager is on the coaching line, there is no need for a field captain, he said. "If by any chance I am out of the game, the boys can carry along the battle without me."

Muggsy McGraw's last, desperate effort to make Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete, into a big league ball player has failed. Thorpe can't hit curves and McGraw converted him into a left-handed batter but that didn't help much, so the Giants have released the rook into Milwaukee.

MILLER HUGGINS PICKS BOSTON IN NATIONALS TO BEAT FOR PENNANT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Louis, April 7.—Miller Huggins, leader of the St. Louis Nationals, declares it will take a good guesser to pick the pennant winner in the circuit this year.

"Every team has a fighting chance," he says, "not even excepting the Cardinals. I consider the National League is better balanced than in 1915."

Huggins refused to hazard an opinion as to his own choice. "However," he continued, "the team that beats out Boston will run one, two."

The St. Louis leader believes New York has a chance if McGraw's pitchers hold up, describes Brooklyn's aggregation as well-balanced, and regards Cincinnati as shifty.

Huggins admits the power Alexander lends to the Philadelphia team, but maintains his own athletes will make every opponent realize they are in a real fight for the pennant.

HAL CHASE WILL PLAY WITH CINCINNATI REDS

Cincinnati, O., April 7.—President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati National league club announced Thursday night the purchase of First Base man Hal Chase of the Buffalo Federal league club. Chase is now working with the San Francisco team of the Pacific Coast league and, according to Mr. Herrmann, he was wired to report at once. The purchase price was not given.

TEUTONIC POWERS HAVE TROUBLE IN OBTAINING UNION

Negotiations Between Germany and Austria Proceeding Very Slowly to Obtain Closer Union.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Zurich, Switzerland, April 7.—Negotiations between Germany and Austria-Hungary for a closer political and economic union are proceeding very slowly. Several conferences have been held in Berlin, Vienna, Budapest, Desden, Munich and Prague, but no definite results have been attained.

It is not only that these countries have certain conflicting interests, but there are special obstacles in the way also. Austria and Hungary have a common foreign policy and a common army and navy, but in other respects are independent states. Various matters, and especially the tariff question, have to be arranged from time to time by means of what is called the "Ausgleich" or joint agreement. This is usually made for ten years and the present "Ausgleich" expires at the end of 1917. It has never been easy to renew this arrangement each time it expires, as the Hungarians have always sought to wring some new political concessions from Austria. One powerful party in Hungary even demands the introduction of a new constitution, which would abolish the monarchy, in order to bolster up new industries.

To form a lasting commercial union with Germany, Austria now demands that the "Ausgleich" shall be made for a term of twenty-five years, but the Hungarians fear to tie themselves up with their industrially stronger partner for so long a time. They argue that it will keep open the present free customs relations between the two countries for too long a time, and then, too, they will lose the opportunity of gaining new concessions each time it expires.

It has been officially stated that the pending negotiations for this extended term have been provisionally concluded, but on what material basis is not mentioned. But it is only possible to conclude anything like a lasting union between the two great Central European Powers when the longer "Ausgleich" between Austria and Hungary has been really powerful technical obstacle in the way of this projected economic union is the adjustment of the present depreciation in Austrian currency. The Austrian crown is now valued at the German mark, below its ordinary value in relation to the standard in neutral states, but it has also depreciated in its relation to the mark so long as this depreciation continues the German merchant would be able to buy Austrian wares cheaply while the Austrian would be compelled to pay dearly in the German market. And while this standard of value varies, an equitable commercial traffic between the two empires continues impossible and tariffs would be only illusory.

Germany loaned Austria-Hungary in 1914 and 1915 eight hundred million marks ($200,000,000) to pay various Austro-Hungarian state obligations. Besides there were numerous private loans, and it was hoped that this would tend to restore the equilibrium between the two currencies. But it failed to do so. At the end of last month the Austrian crown had depreciated so greatly that for 100 marks, 151.50 crowns had to be paid, instead of the normal 117.80 crowns in peace times.

During the recent visit of the German Minister of Finance, Dr. Helfferich, in Vienna, a new Austro-Hungarian loan was arranged when a number of German banks agreed to advance Austro-Hungary 200 million marks ($50,000,000) for January and February, and additional sums later. This sent up the value of the crown to such a point that it now bore 15 per cent of the rate in peace times. But so long as the standard of the crown in relation to the mark is not rendered stable, and the new "Ausgleich" between Austria and Hungary is not perfected, all attempts to bring about the new great Central European political and economic union will be in vain.

PRaises Wisconsin FOR CANCER FIGHT

Work Done By Health Board in Spreading Information on Scourge Secures Recognition.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 7.—For its activity in fighting cancer Wisconsin is given special distinction by the American Society for the Control of Cancer in a recent bulletin issued by that agency. This is one of a small number of states recognized as leaders in the warfare on this scourge through public education. The Wisconsin state board of health, says the society, through its press service and by special articles in its bulletin on "What You Should Know About Cancer," has been disseminating trustworthy information and advice about the prevention of this disease and the hope of cure which is found in the early recognition of the disease and its prompt and competent treatment.

The state board's publication reaches the much can be done to prevent the occurrence of this disease by avoiding certain specified causes of local irritation. Moles or warts that are irritated by the clothing or made to bleed may develop into cancer. Cigars and pipe stems, also hot smoke, that irritate the lips and tongue are considered causes of cancer. Unhealed ulcers, sores and wounds have often been known to develop into cancer stage. Cancer of the breast frequently follows chronic inflammation and is thought to be caused by constant irritation or pressure.

The publication teaches that cancer is curable in a large percentage of the cases that are treated in time, that the cure consists in the complete surgical removal of the growth at the earliest possible moment, and that the only successful method of curing the disease is early diagnosis and early removal.

A special warning is sounded against false cancer cures which cost money, raise false hopes and waste of all waste precious time, and stress is laid on the fact that in early recognition and early operation lies the only hope of cure.

STATE HOTEL INSPECTORS ORDER MANY IMPROVEMENTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 7.—The reports of the three state hotel inspectors for March show that there were 10,000 violations of law in hotels and restaurants they made 476 inspections. In 135 cases, or nearly one-third of the total, orders for improvements were issued. West Allis had twenty-five inspections and six orders; Appleton thirty-six inspections and eleven orders; Beaver Dam twenty-one inspections and three orders; Racine fifty-two inspections and six orders; Jefferson eleven inspections and five orders; Shippewa Falls twenty-nine inspections and eight orders; Eau Claire nineteen inspections and three orders; Portage fifteen inspectors and eight orders, and Antigo eighteen inspections and no orders.

One of the deputy state health officers, J. C. Thompson, of the Eau Claire district, traveled 1,200 miles during March, during which time he visited twenty cities, inspected nine hundred camps and two construction camps, investigated several outbreaks of dangerous communicable disease, and performed numerous other services to bring about better sanitary conditions in his territory.

MORE MOVING IS BEING DONE IN GREAT BRITAIN NOW THAN EVER BEFORE

London, April 7.—More moving is being done in England today than ever before in the country's history. The moving is for the families of merchant men who expect to leave shortly for one of the war fronts. This is the end of the "quarter" and as few middle class Englishmen can keep up their homes in their absence, they are breaking them up.

Furniture movers are hopelessly swamped. Not only has the unprecedented amount of business overwhelmed them, but like everybody else they have already given most of their able-bodied men to the colors. The elderly, extremely youthful or weakly laborers they are compelled to rely upon to handle the work expeditiously.

Prices have jumped correspondingly. The removal of a vanload of furniture, for which the charge in normal times was two guineas (about $16) now costs $15. Great numbers of people have found it impossible to get vans on any terms and are requisitioning delivery wagons and even pushbarts and wheelbarrows.

Huge quantities of household goods are being stored. Warehouse room, too, is at a premium. It used to be calculated at the rate of 12 shillings ($2.48) per month per vanload. The charge now is $5.60.

Some families are selling their furniture outright. They do so at a sacrifice, but the market is not quite so depressed as a state might be expected. Recent restrictions on the importation of material for furniture making has led to the expectation that the demand for this class of merchandise will soon exceed the supply and second-hand dealers are consequently paying fairly liberal prices.

Owners of antiques really are doing exceptionally well. Orders from neutral countries, which are rolling in war profits, in expectation of just such a situation as the present one.

London, the big boarding house centers, like Bloomsbury and South Kensington, are gathering in enormous numbers of the refugees. The landlords unquestionably will do well, but their profits will be due rather to the heavy volume of their business than to large individual profits. The families left behind when the married men go to the front will have enough to live on meagerly, but not more. Lawyers were never so busy as now drawing wills for the departing soldiers.

BILL BEFORE CONGRESS TO OBTAIN AEROPLANES TO PATROL THE COAST

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, April 7.—It was learned today that a fleet of fifty aeroplanes to patrol the Pacific and Atlantic coasts as auxiliaries to the U. S. Coast Guard cutters, is the proposition set forth in a bill to be introduced during the present session of Congress. The bill will ask for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of the fleet. There are 5000 miles of coast in the U. S. and it is proposed to have an aeroplane stationed every 100 miles.

Lookouts in aeroplanes would be able to sight ships in distress much more readily than the lookouts on board coast guard cutters; and since the air machine can attain a greater speed than the cutters, aid could be dispatched to distressed vessels more quickly. It is maintained that these coast guard aeroplanes would be a valuable addition to the military forces in time of war.

The possibilities of this fleet are great. Equipped with searchlights at night they might prove far more adequate than light ships, and it is held that an aeroplane would be of great service to coast guards in carrying breeches buoy lines to ships ashore, when the surf is running too high for the launching of a life boat.

Mayo Dudley, a Washington newspaperman, conceived the idea, and has been instrumental in the drawing up of the bill. Coast guard officials, the Aero club of America and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton have endorsed the proposed bill.

FAMOUS FOUR COURTS IN ST. LOUIS WILL BE TORN DOWN THIS SUMMER.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—The Four Courts—the famous building in St. Louis that for nearly forty years housed the criminal courts, the police headquarters and the central police station, and that for nearly fifty years housed the city jail, is to be torn down.

Bids for razing the building already have been asked.

The Four Courts was built in 1866, and in police circles throughout the country acquired a fame as wide as that of the old Harrison Street Police Station in Chicago, and The Tombs in New York.

In the three criminal court rooms in the buildings many famous trials were held, and in the yard back of the Four Courts jail many men were executed.

The criminal courts now are housed in a magnificent building, the city prisoners are kept in a new, sanitary jail, and the police headquarters are in a special building opposite the city hall. The Four Courts buildings have been condemned as unsafe and insanitary, and in a few weeks they will be torn down.

SEE MUCH TROUBLE TO PURCHASE WHEAT

Since Britton Has Brought Eight Hundred Thousand Tons How Are They Going to Get It?

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Bucharest, Rumania, April 7.—Opponents of the Brittanu government here hold the view that the contract for the sale of 80,000 carloads of wheat, made between the Rumanian Central Commission and the British Purchasing Bureau in this city, will give rise to much trouble before the transactions covered by it will have been terminated.

The quantity of wheat sold is 800,000 tons. Rumania can store in railroad sheds and harbor storages only 300,000 tons leaving of the British purchase alone 500,000 tons to be housed in some other manner. At present this wheat is still in the granaries and silos of the producers, but the room taken by it will shortly be needed by the new crop of about 2,440,000 tons of wheat alone, not counting large quantities of legumes, barley, rye and oats.

If the British were able to export the wheat bought, the storage problem would not exist, but there is at this time no opportunity of doing this. The Russian railroads offer the only route of export and these, owing to the military situation, are not available.

The contract made by the British Bureau calls for the removal of the wheat within six months of the making of peace. Brittanu's opponents argue that this means storing the wheat for a year or more, possibly and that during this the transaction will remain unfinished, with Rumania carrying all the risks that are involved. Even many Brittanu partisans see an element of political and economic danger in this.

The wheat will be paid for by the Rumanian National Bank with paper currency to the amount of 262,000,000 lei, the equivalent of 10,909,000 pounds sterling, called for in the contract. The British Bureau will cause the depositing in a London bank to the credit of the Rumanian National Bank of gold to the value of one-third of 10,909,000 pounds sterling. On this basis or security the Rumanian National Bank will issue three times as much Rumanian lei or a total of 262,000,000.

During the war the gold stock of this paper currency will remain in deposit in London, while the Rumanian National Bank will have issued its equivalent in Rumanian paper to pay for the wheat bought by the British Bureau. The opposition here says that this is a dangerous procedure. The British government, it is asserted, could at any time sequester the gold base of the paper currency involved and thus oblige the Rumanian government to engage in a policy or acts contrary to the best interests of the country. Rumanian credit would be ruined for many years if the British government seized the emission basis of 262,000,000 Rumanian paper lei, because the money would then have no other value than the wheat held in the country.

Critics of the British contract seem to overlook, however, the fact that the wheat held in that case by the Rumanian government would under present market conditions, have approximately the value of the paper issued. When this was brought to their attention, the answer was given that the 80,000 carloads of wheat of the British contract would then be dumped on a market in which already a new crop might be looking for buyers, and that a great slump in wheat prices would then result, a decrease so great that it might rob the 80,000 carloads of the British contract of whatever their value might then be. In that case, it is argued, Rumania would have to bear the loss. A decline in wheat prices to a normal peace level would in itself wipe out the value to Rumania of the 80,000 carloads if they had to be disposed in competition with a new crop. In that case Rumania would have no equivalent for 262,000,000 lei of its paper currency.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENT FOR DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—The general committee on entertainment is arranging special features to get the good will and appreciation of visitors and delegates who will attend the democratic national convention in St. Louis in June.

Fourteen states represented by state societies will assist in entertaining the guests. Delegates and alternates from states not represented by societies will be cared for by commercial and civic associations.

Many committees will be appointed to obtain complete information about delegates who will attend in order that the entertainment may be made as personal as possible. They will be shown through banks, factories, stores or whatever places they are most interested in. There also will be a sym-tematized campaign for decorating the city.
